INTERIOR BOWLING GREEN NATIONAL BANK.

BOWLING GREEN
National Bank.

There is no institution in Bowling Green in which we can take a greater pride than in Bowling Green National Bank. In the financial life of this city and section, it occupies a prominent position and it is an important factor in our commercial and material progress.

No community can prosper to any appreciable extent unless its banking facilities are broad and extensive enough to meet all the demands that the business of the community may entail. In this respect Bowling Green is singularly fortunate and better situated than any of her sister towns of the South. Her banking facilities are first class and standing in the very front rank of her financial institutions is the Bowling Green National Bank. This bank was organized on July 1, 1905, at a time when there was a public demand for another national bank with ample capital and experienced men at the helm. It has more than met every demand that the public interests have made upon it and though it is less than six years old, its deposits and the amount of business it does and the position it occupies in the public esteem would indicate that it had been in business for years.

It is remarkable that it should have been put on a dividend paying basis after the first year of its existence, and this is a record which is rare in the history of legitimate modern banking. The bank building at the corner of State and Park Row is conveniently located and was remodeled and made into one of the finest banking houses in the city before the institution occupied it. It has a large fire and burglar proof vault of the very latest make and equal in every respect to those of the best banks in the larger cities. The building throughout is thoroughly equipped and everything is safe-guarded to the limit, and neither expense nor pains were spared in fitting it up so as to make it secure and absolutely safe.

A general banking business is conducted, viz. caring for deposits, buying and selling bonds, issuing drafts payable in all parts of the country and making collections at all available points, it is a member of the State Bankers' Association, and three per cent interest is allowed on time deposits.

The bank conducts both commercial and savings departments, and in the latter accounts can be started with any amount, and three per cent interest is allowed on savings deposits compounded semi-annually.

The officers of the Bowling Green National Bank are: James H. Wilkerson, president; W. C. Morris, vice president; J. M. Ramsey, cashier; M. C. O'Hearn, Jr., assistant cashier, and the directors are: C. J. Vanmeter, J. M. Young, James H. Wilkerson, W. C. Morris, Ed B. Stout, W. H. Jones, Guy H. Herdman.

traveling men can display their goods to the best of advantage. The office is handsomely furnished in marble, with leather easy chairs, while the dining room is light and pleasant, the tables being bountifully supplied with the very best of everything the market affords.

G. M. Williamson is the resident proprietor and manager, and he is ably assisted by C. J. Custer, steward; J. A. Keough, day clerk, and James Duplin, night clerk, all of whom do all in their power to make you feel at home, and forget your troubles if you have any, and it is often said by old traveling men that they are glad when was organized and the present building purchased.

That same afternoon, someone hearing of the project, brought in a patient and from that day to the present time the hospital has never been without some one under treatment.

The site seems to be wonderfully well chosen, being out of the noisy district yet easily accessible to physicians or friends in town.

A unique feature is that while the hospital is a private one, it is open not alone to the patients of its owners but to those of every physician in Warren county who is a member of the Warren County Medical Society.

With rare foresight the corporation built and furnished with every modern appliance, a beautiful operating room, which surpasses anything of its kind in the state.

Not less attractive nor essential is the solarium leading from the upper corridor.

This is a feature not often found in larger wealthier hospitals and the benefits derived therefrom, have been of inestimable value to the patients.

The second inhalatorium in Kentucky was installed here about the same time the X-ray and electrical room were completed.

It was a singular coincidence that on September 1st, 1910 (almost two years from the day of the organization of the hospital) the training-school for nurses was reorganized and the course made to conform as nearly as possible with that given in the large eastern training schools.

Six earnest young women—pupil nurses—are studying with keenest interest and the school will be enlarged as necessity requires.

There is in the near future a prospect of a spacious new building of concrete to be erected on the lot adjoining the present grounds, when the building now in service will be used for special work or isolated cases.

The doors of the hospital are always open to visitors and the nurses are delighted to show them through.

DIXIE CAFE.Good Things to Eat.

This is one of the chain of cafes, the others being located at Hopkinsville, Ky., Clarksville, Tenn., Danville, Va., Columbia, S. C., and Orangeburg, S. C.

The business here was started one year ago, when the room occupied at 346 Main street, next to the Elks' Home, was remodeled and refitted, and opened to the public. The Dixie Cafe is easily the best restaurant in Bowling Green, and ever care is taken by A. Colovos, and his assistants, to give the public the very best of everything the market affords, served in a clean appetizing manner at a moderate price. Regular meals are served at twenty-five cents each, in addition to which short orders of any kind are served. Meal tickets are issued which save the regular, or weekly, customer, money.

Recently the kitchen has undergone a thorough overhauling, new fixtures, ice boxes, etc., have been installed, and everything about the kitchen is clean and sanitary, and a cordial invitation is given the public to come in at any time and see for yourself just how everything you eat is prepared. The Dixie Cafe caters to the better class of people, and is largely patronized by traveling people, and the business and professional people of Bowling Green and their families.

Whether you are a stranger or a resident here, if you wish a regular meal, a short order, or a lunch, drop in the Dixie Cafe, and satisfy yourself that it is not only the best and most home-like restaurant in Warren county, but that it serves the best meals.

REV. JOHN W. LEWIS, D. D.,Presiding Elder.

John W. Lewis, D. D., was born in Logan county, Ky., in 1846. His father was the Rev. N. B. Lewis, who was a minister in the Methodist church in Kentucky for about twenty years, and who died at the early age of thirty-eight. His mother was Margaret E. Burnett, daughter of Col. Schuyler Burnett, of Lincoln county, Ky. To them were born six children, the Rev. James A. Lewis being the oldest and John W. the youngest.

John W. Lewis spent his childhood and youth on his father's farm, near the village of Keysburg in southern Logan, attending the village school in fall and winter; subsequently he attended an excellent school in the eastern part of the country between Russellville and Auburn. After that he taught school for awhile and then went to Kentucky Wesleyan College, then at Millersburg, Ky., now removed to Winchester. Rev. Charles Taylor, D. D., was the president at Millersburg. Professor John J. Tigert is now president. He received the degree of A. M. from this institution in 1876 and the honorary degree of D. D. from Centenary College, Jackson, La., Dr. L. C. Hunnicut, president. The college has since been removed to Shreveport, La. This college was Bishop Keener's pet institution.

Was licensed to exhort by the quarterly conference of Millersburg, Dr. C.

W. Miller being presiding elder. His first sermon (if it could be so called) was delivered at Ruddle's Mills, a village in Bourbon county.

He was licensed to preach in 1869 at Fairview, the birth place of Jefferson Davis, in the summer of 1869, the Rev. W. H. Morrison being presiding elder.

He joined the Louisville conference in the fall of 1869, at Owensboro, Bishop McTear presiding, and was appointed to the Franklin circuit; after that he was sent to the following appointments in the order named. Glasgow station, Lebanon station, Elizabethtown station, Olmstead circuit, Hopkinsville station, Jefferson street, Louisville; Henderson station, Middletown circuit, Chestnut street, Louisville; Hopkinsville, second term; Bowling Green station, Walnut street, Louisville; Louisville district, Lebanon district, Central Church, Meridian, Miss.; Jackson district, Miss.; Nashville district, Tenn.; Owensboro district; Hopkinsville district, Bowling Green district, the present appointment. In 1872 was married to Miss Lucy B. Donaldson, of this city. He was a member of three successive general conferences, at St. Louis, in 1890, at Memphis in 1894, and at Baltimore in 1898. Also a member of the Ecumenical Methodist Conference which met in Washington, D. C., in the fall of 1891, and of the National Biblical Congress, which met in the same city in 1897. Of his immediate family there have been three ministers who have served Kentucky Methodism for one hundred and eleven years. His father twenty years, his brother fifty and himself forty-one years. He is thoroughly identified with all that pertains to the welfare of Kentucky and the city of Bowling Green.

CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK.

CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK,
A Progressive Institution.

The soundness of any city, village or town is usually demonstrated by the soundness of its financial institutions, and in this regard Bowling Green is indeed fortunate. No one element in a business community contributes more largely to solid and permanent prosperity than correct and conservative banking methods.

In a city or village where the banks are carefully conducted, while at the same time according to their patrons the co-operation that is consistent with safety, it will invariably be found that failures are few and business is conducted on safe and proper lines, for reckless banking begets reckless business in general.

No bank in this section has a better reputation than the Citizens National Bank.

Conservatism has signalized the management of this institution since the first and placed it in the front ranks. Its policy is to extend courteous treatment alike to the humblest depositor as well as to the capitalist. This is an absolute and inviolable requirement exacted of every attaché of the bank, and its motto, courtesy, stability, progressiveness, has always been lived up to.

The Citizens National Bank was opened for business July 15, 1901, under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency as required by the National Banking laws. Its affairs have been carefully and prudently conducted by a competent board of directors and an efficient force of officers and bookkeepers.

Its business has shown a steady and substantial growth. Its customers in every part of this county take pleasure in recommending it to their friends.

It does a general banking business, caring for deposits, buying and selling exchange, issuing drafts payable in all parts of the country, negotiating loans and making collections at all available points, and allows three per cent interest on time deposits.

The bank is well equipped with all modern safeguards, fire and burglar proof safes and vaults, and is insured against burglary and daylight hold-ups and all employees of the bank are bonded. The capital of the bank is $100,000.00 and the surplus and undivided profits $42,000.00, and it is a member of the State Bankers' Association.

The officers of the Citizens' National Bank are: Robert Rodes, Jr., president; R. W. Covington, vice president; T. H. Beard, cashier; M. J. Hanley, assistant cashier; Wm. D. McElroy, assistant cashier; and the directors are: M. B. Nahm, J. L. Jenkins, R. W. Covington, Thos. W. Thomas, Robt. Rodes, Jr., Harry Lazarus.

MURPHY BROTHERS CO., Contractors and Engineers.

There is probably no better known Bridge and Stone Contractors and Engineers, in Kentucky or Tennessee, than the Murphy Bros. Co.

The start of the present company was made many years ago by the father of the brothers, William M. Murphy, who was engaged in the stone business in Ireland before he came to this country. The Murphy Brothers Company began operations here over twenty-five years ago with William Murphy first, and the other three brothers afterwards came into the firm which continued as such until February, 1910, when it was incorporated under the name it now bears, and with the following officers; William Murphy, President; P. J. Murphy, Vice-president; T. J. Murphy, Secretary, J. J. Murphy, Treasurer. They are general bridge and stone contractors and engineers, and make a specialty of steel bridges, stone abutments, stone and concrete arch bridges and all kinds of stone building work, curbing, etc.

They have their own quarries four miles north of Bowling Green, from which they obtain large quantities of hard lime stone equal in hardness and quality to granite, and which is used for building and monument purposes, used in their own work, and also furnished to builders. This spring they will open up another quarry from which they will obtain Oolitic stone. This quarry is close to their other one and from it will be cut mill blocks which will be shipped to various parts of the country.

Murphy Brothers Company do stone contract work of every description up to the construction of a residence, church of business block, and their heavy stone work is well known all through Kentucky and parts of Tennessee. They recently were given the contract for constructing the county bridge across Drake's creek about eight miles from Bowling Green. They furnished the stone for the State street M. E. Church, and recently completed the entire construction of Burton Memorial Baptist church, located four miles from Bowling Green, and acknowledged by competent judges to be one of the handsomest and best built churches in Kentucky.

Specimens of their work, great and small, are to be seen on all sides, and it is a known fact that whatever they undertake will be completed in a thoroughly satisfactory manner.

MANSARD HOTEL,
Our Leading Hotel.

The Mansard Hotel, operated by the Mansard Hotel Company, and of which G. M. Williamson and J. W. Montgomery are the proprietors, is the leading hotel in Bowling Green and in Warren county, and is first class in every particular. When traveling men speak well of a hotel, you can make up your mind that it is all right, and the army of members of the Knights of the Grip have given this hotel their support and approval, and have passed the word down along the line that the "Mansard" is the place to stop.

A PARLOR IN THE MANSARD HOTEL.

The hotel is of brick, conveniently located in the business section of the city, at the corner of Main and Center streets, and directly across from the postoffice. It contains fifty sleeping rooms, cleanly and comfortably furnished, and having hot and cold running water and telephone in every room, as well as electric lights and steam heat. There are bath rooms and toilet rooms on every floor, and private rooms with bath and en suite. In addition to the sleeping rooms, there is the reading and writing rooms, barber shop, and sample rooms where they get to the Mansard, and sorry when it is time to leave.

ST. JOSEPH'S HOSPITAL.A Model Institution.

A work of distinct progress in Bowling Green is demonstrated in the hospital. For many years there was a pitiful need of such an institution and several attempts were made to establish one without success, until September 2nd, 1908 when St. Joseph's Hospital

DR. J. L. TOPMILLER, V. S.

PRODUCE HOUSE OF W. H. MITCHELL & CO.

HON. R. Y. THOMAS, JR.,
Our Congressman.

Robert Young Thomas, Jr., Congressman from the Third district, comprising Allen, Barren, Butler, Edmonson, Logan, Metcalfe, Muhlenberg, Simpson, Todd and Warren counties, is a Democrat of Central City, was born in Logan county, Kentucky; was educated at Bethel College, Russellville, Ky.; received the degrees of A. B. and A. M.; is married; is a lawyer by profession; was a member of the State legislature in 1886; was elected Commonwealth's Attorney for the seventh judicial district, which office he held when nominated for Congress; was elected to the Sixty-first Congress, receiving 20,079 votes, a majority of 420 over his opponents on the Republican, Prohibitionist, and Socialist tickets. Congressman Thomas has been very active in the affairs of the district, and redeemed it from the Republican party. Since he has been in Congress he has worked hard and conscientiously, not only for the Third district, but for the State as well. He was the means of getting the additional appropriation for the new government building in this city, and, among other bills, he is the author of the Mammoth Cave bill, the object of which is for the U. S. government to appropriate one million dollars for the purchase of the Mammoth Cave, and convert it into a National Park. He has been true to all his pledges since his election, and altogether has made exceptionally worthy representative of this district.

PLANTERS' INSURANCE CO. A Progressive Company.

The Planters' Insurance Company was organized and incorporated in October, 1898, and during the thirteen years of its existence has had a remarkably strong and healthy growth. It is a mutual insurance company and insures nothing but farm and detached property, and its rates are about one-half what stock companies charge for the same class of property.

The territory covered includes Warren, Simpson, Logan, Todd, Christian, Allen, Barren, Hart, Hardin and LaRue counties, and a large majority of the farmers, as well as many others, are insured in the "Planters," and there is now over two million, one hundred thousand dollars insurance in force.

Kentucky has twenty-three mutual fire insurance companies, and practically all of them are organized in a body known as the "State Association of Mutual Insurance Companies of Kentucky." The Secretary-Treasurer of the Planters' Insurance Company is President of this association.

The officers of the Planters' Insurance Company are President, D. W. Wright, attorney at law, ex-State Senator, and a native of Warren county; Vice President L. H. Skiles, also a native of Warren county, and Secretary-Treasurer, P. C. Jesse, reared in Powell's Valley, Va., and who has been a resident of Kentucky for seventeen years.

The officers of the company are in the McCormack Building, corner State and Tenth streets.

KELLOGG HARDWARE CO., General Hardware, Etc.

This business was established in Bowling Green, and in the same store room now occupied by the firm, fifteen years ago, coming here from Evansville, Indiana. The store is at 417 Park Place and runs through to Tenth street, and is stocked with shelf and heavy hardware, wagon and buggy material, saddlery, harness, nails, cutlery, stoves, ranges, tinware, enameled ware, iron ware, guns, ammunition, lamps, crockery, glassware, carpenter's tools, washing machines, and in fact everything that goes to make up a first-class, modern store of the kind.

A specialty is made of sharpening and repairing razors of all kinds and putting new handles on them. This is a great convenience to many, for how

J. L. DURBIN & CO., Dry Goods, Clothing, Etc.

One of the largest and most successful retail dry goods and clothing houses of the city is that of J. L. Durbin & Co., located on College street in the Opera House Building. The business was established in modest way eleven years ago by J. L. Durbin, who by close attention and upright and courteous dealing built up the business until today it is upon as solid foundation as any enterprise in the city. The stock carried by this firm consists of everything in the line of dry goods, clothing, shoes, furnishings, etc., and is as large and varied as can be found in any house in Bowling Green. On account of the constantly growing busness and by reason of failing health, in the summer of 1907 he disposed of a half interest in his business to his brother, S. F. Durbin, and Ben S. Davis.

J. L. Durbin came to this city about twenty-three years ago from Breckinridge county, where he was born and

DR. T. W. POSEY. Osteopath Physician.

Dr T. W. Posey was born in Warren county, Kentucky on a farm. He obtained his education in the county schools, Ogden College, and the Southern Normal School. He then entered the retail grocery business, and was with his brother R. C. Posey for eleven years, before he attended the Southern School of Osteopathy, Franklin, Ky., and from which he was graduated in 1904. Soon after receiving his diploma he returned to Bowling Green, and has practiced his profession here since, his residence and office being at 732 State street.

Osteopathy contends that the human body is a complete mechanism, containing within its tissues all the remedial forces essential and necessary to the cure of disease. Furthermore, if all the parts that go to make up the human body are in normal relation, that is, if every bone, ligament, muscle, nerve, blood vessel, etc., are in their proper places and in working order, then no such condition as disease can prevail.

It is the osteopathic conception, when disease is set up anywhere in the body, that something has occurred to arrest or blockage the body's life giving and healing currents, its nervous impulses, its blood and lymph streams, and that the proper sort of treatment is to remove these obstructions. Nature's vital fluids and forces will then usually work recovery.

Osteopathy is the only system of therapeutics to the diagnosis of hidden lesions.

It is the only system which corrects such lesions and thereby puts the human machine in good mechanical order. Briefly summed up Osteopathy is advanced physics.

GALLOWAY, HUGHES & POTTER, Real Estate and Insurance.

This well known real estate and insurance agency was established about twenty-three years ago, and was purchased by Galloway, & Hughes, January 1, 1905, and conducted by them until February 1, 1911, when Julian W. Potter was admitted to partnership, and the firm name changed to the present one, the individual members being J. Grover Galloway, M. O. Hughes, and Julian W. Potter. Galloway, Hughes & Potter buy, sell and exchange real estate in both city and country, rent property of all descriptions and collect rentals. They also conduct a general insurance agency, and write life, fire, plate glass, steam boilers, tobacco, accident and health, insurance, and also do a general bonding business of all kinds.

They represent some of the largest companies in the world, among them the "Northern Assurance Company, Limited, of London; Aetna Insurance Co.; National Fire Insurance Co. of London, St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance Co., Springfield Fire Insurance Co., Citizens Fire Insurance Co., Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Connecticut and others. The offices of Galloway, Hughes & Potter are on the ground floor of the Cook Building, 431 Tenth Street.

C. W. STONE.

Staple and Fancy Groceries.

C. W. Stone came to Bowling Green fourteen years ago and started in the grocery business under the firm name of Jenkins & Stone. Seven years ago, upon the death of Mr. Jenkins, the business of the old firm was wound up, and on February 1, 1903, C. W. Stone started business again for himself, and

J. W. BEARCE CO. Implements, Wagons, Etc.

J. W. Bearce is one of the best and most popular men in the implement business in Southern Kentucky, and his many friends throughout this locality will be glad to know that he is again actively engaged in business in his new warerooms at 510-512 Tenth street (Telephone 160)—on the same site he formerly occupied. He has had erected for him a new and modern brick building, 35 x 140 feet, and is now prepared to meet his former friends and customers and show them as fine a line of new goods, from the leading makers, as was ever exhibited in this part of the State. He carries standard makes of farm and mill machinery and implements, gasoline, steam traction, portable and stationary engines, buggies, surreys, wagons, and automobiles and a complete line of parts and repairs.

J. W. Bearce has been in business in Bowling Green since 1876, and in his present line since 1882, and in that long time built up a large business. When the building he now occupies was completed, the present company known as the J. W. Bearce Company, of which he is President and General Manager, was organized, in February 1911, was incorporated.

We bespeak for this company, a continuance of the old business, and a large increase in new customers.

E. HUGH MORRIS, Drugs and Medicines.

Another of our younger set of business men, whose success is worthy of more than passing notice, is E. Hugh Morris, the Druggist. This is the oldest established drug store in Bowling Green, and was purchased by the present proprietor in August, 1909.

E. Hugh Morris was born in Warren county, at Massey's Mill, and obtained his education in the Bowling Green schools and the Normal school. He is a registered pharmacist, and has had seventeen years experience in the drug business, the last two of which he has been in business for himself at his present stand. He carries a full line of drugs, medicines, patent medicines, drug sundries, toilet articles, rubber goods, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, "Dolly Varden" chocolates, etc., and special attention is given to compounding physicians' prescriptions. A sanitary soda fountain is a prominent fixture in this popular store, and from it is served soda, and other beverages, made from pure fruit syrups.

A specialty is made of photographic goods, he being the agent of the celebrated "Eastman Kodaks" of which he carries a fine assortment, as well as a full line of "Kodak" supplies.

E. Hugh Morris caters largely to the students in our city, and recently had printed and circulate an invitation card as follows:

STUDENTS: I want you to get in the habit of coming or sending here for anything you need in Drugs, Stationery, School Supplies, Kodaks, Films, Toilet Articles, Soda Water and Cigars.

You are always welcome whether you purchase or not, and I appreciate your patronage. Respectfully,

E. HUGH MORRIS, Druggist,
Corner Main and Center sts., opposite postoffice.

Boost Bowling Green all the time.

Talk about and encourage people to come here to reside. We have a great town and the future appears excellent.

CAMPBELL & MCGOWN, Livery and Feed Stable.

J. R. Campbell, and T. J. McGown are the individual members of this well known and popular livery, feed and sale stable, and the present firm was established in February 1906, J. R. Campbell, however, has been in this line of business for twelve years.

They conduct a first-class stable in every particular, and have rigs of all kinds to hire, with horses you need not feel ashamed to drive. Horses are also boarded by the day, week or month, and they also buy and sell horses and and they have splendid accommodations for feeding and hitching horses; mules. A transfer department is a feature of the business, and trunks, and in fact anything from a box of matches to an iron bridge can be hauled anywhere at any time.

In connection with the livery business is operated a wholesale and retail department where is sold hay, corn, oats and feed of all kinds, in large or small quantities, either locally or shipped to other places.

The livery, feed, and sale stable of Campbell & McGown is at 316-318 Eleventh street, between Center and College streets.

K. M. RUSSELL & SON, LUMBER YARD.

A COUNTY SCHOOL AS IT WAS.

J. W. THOMAS,

Livery and Sale Stable.

J. W. Thomas is comparatively a new man in Bowling Green, he having come here in business but four years ago. At that time he purchased the livery, feed and sale stable he now conducts at the corner of College and Eighth streets—Home phone 199—and has made a success of it from the first. This is the largest stable in Warren county, so far as room is concerned, and has accommodations for two hundred and fifty horses.

J. W. Thomas furnishes rigs for all occasions with good driving horses and makes a feature of caring for commercial men, and the traveling public. He also boards horses by the day, week, or month, and runs a hitch, and feed stable, and buys and sells horses.

During the four years that he has been in business here, he has made many friends and customers, due to the attention he has given the business, and his evident desire to please all with whom he comes in business contact. His help about the stable are careful and courteous, and every accommodation is given the patrons of this livery, feed, and sale stable.

BOWLING GREEN
Steam Laundry Co.

B. J. Borrone, one of the best known and most popular of Bowling Green's younger business men, was born in Indianapolis in 1878, but removed the next year to this city with his parents and has since resided here. He is the manager of the Bowling Green Steam Laundry, which is in a handsome brick building on Center street. Not only the building but all the machinery and everything about the laundry is strictly new, it having only been in operation a little over three years.

This building is 35 x 125 in area, and light and sanitary in every particular. Being located in the center of a large plot of ground, with no buildings on either side, gives it plenty of ventilation and light. B. J. Borrone started in to have the completest and most up-to-date laundry in Southern Kentucky, and he has succeeded admirably. His machinery is all of the very latest and most approved make and does its work on scientific principles. He uses the pres-

O. N. WILSON,
Progressive Druggist.

This drug business was established some years ago and was purchased of George H. Holeman by the present owner on January 11, 1911. O. N. Wilson has been in the drug business in Bowling Green for over eight years, and is a registered pharmacist of experience. When he purchased his present business he entirely remodeled and refitted the interior of the store, and put in practically a new stock of everything, so that today he has one of the best stocked and most modernly appointed and equipped stores of its kind in Warren county, in which is to be found drugs, medicines, patent medicines, drug sundries, toilet articles, perfumes, rubber goods, cigars, tobacco, etc., and special attention is given to the careful and accurate compounding of physicians' prescriptions. As you enter the door a handsome soda fountain attracts your attention. This fountain is sanitary in every way, and from it is drawn ice cream soda, made from pure cream and natural fruit syrups, and other delicious and refreshing drinks.

O. N. Wilson, during the eight years that he has been here, has made many friends who wish him every success in his new enterprise, and from present indications this success is an assured fact, for during the two months he has been established he has enjoyed a very satisfactory patronage. The store is centrally and conveniently located in the McCormack Building, corner State and Tenth streets.

A city will prosper in proportion to the thrift and enterprise of its citizens. A good town cannot be made with drones.

possible, including a "Burroughs Addres" instead of the friction system, and this prevent the wearing and tearing of goods as under the old system, and with the machinery he has it is absolutely impossible to scorch a piece of linen.

This laundry is doing as fine work as was ever done in this section of the State, and is receiving a large patronage. He is in a position to give his patrons the very best that is to be had in the laundry business and all he asks is a trial.

The office of this laundry is equipped with every labor saving device

H. A. McELROY,
Agricultural Implements.

There is probably no better known or more successful farm implement dealer in Warren county, or any of the surrounding counties, than H. A. McElroy. The business was established in 1904, under the firm name of McElroy Brothers, and was succeeded by the present proprietor on January 1, 1910. H. A. McElroy occupies a large double building on Tenth street, opposite the Court House, and carries on exceptionally fine line of farm implements, wagons, buggies, wire fence, fertilizers and field seeds. He is the exclusive representative here for the celebrated "John Deere" line of implements, which include about everything used on the farm. The name of "John Deere" on any implement means the very best made, and this is generally understood by the farmers who desire implements that do the work and can be relied upon, and this knowledge accounts in a great measure for the increased demand for the John Deere implements every year. H. A. McElroy is also agent here for Mitchell wagons, "Owensboro," and "Ahlbrand" buggies, "Vulcan" plows, "Adrian" wire fence and "Morris & Co." fertilizers, all articles with an undisputed name behind them for quality and unquestionable service and satisfaction. He also carries parts for all implements.

MILLER-ROGERS

Hardware Company.

This well known hardware house was established twenty years ago by Walter H. Miller, and has the distinction of having been longer in business continuously in Bowling Green than any other house in the same line. For a number of years the firm was Miller & Harris, and five years ago Charles W. Rogers purchased the interest of the latter, and the firm name was changed to the Miller-Rogers Hardware Company. Eight years ago the business was moved to its present quarters in the Elks Building, corner ing Machine," a "National Cash Register," a Typewriter, and an Addressing Machine.

There is no more courteous business man in the city than B. J. Borrone, and he has many friends. He is thoroughly reliable, and noted for his integrity and fairness in all his dealings.

The main office and plant of the Bowling Green Steam Laundry Company, is at 929-931 Center street, between Main and Tenth streets.

McCORMACK BUILDING

A COUNTY SCHOOL AS IT IS.

JOHN S. HUMBLE,
First Class Livery.

This is one of the old and popular livery stables in this part of Kentucky, and was purchased by the present owner, John S. Humble, four years ago. Previous to going into the livery business he taught school in the county for ten years.

He conducts a general livery, feed and sale stable, and has rigs of all kinds, with good horses, to hire for all occasions, giving particular attention to commercial trade and the traveling public. He also boards horses by the day, week or month, and has excellent accommodations for farmers hitching and feeding. He as well buys and sells horses. The stable is kept in a clean and sanitary condition, and every attention is given horses left here in charge. The employees about the place are courteous and obliging, and taken altogether it is a good stable to patronize.

John S. Humble gives his personal attention to his customers, and sees to it that they are always treated right, and this, among other things, accounts for the popularity of the stable, and the excellent trade it enjoys.

The livery, feed, and sale stable of John S. Humble is at 817 State street, near Main street.

DR. J. L. TOPMILLER, U. S.
Veterinary Surgeon.

Doctor J. L. Topmiller, the well known veterinary surgeon, was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, and came to Bowling Green seventeen years ago. He obtained his education in the graded schools and high school of this city, and at Ogden College from which he graduated in 1902. He then attended McKillip Veterinary College, Chicago, Ill., and was graduated from that institution in 1905. For two years after graduation he practiced his profession in Hopkinsville, Ky., and for the past three years he has been in practice in Bowling Green.

Dr. Topmiller treats all diseases of horses and domestic animals and has his offices with John S. Humble, liveryman, at 817 State street, near Main street.

HON. D. W. WRIGHT,
Secretary Ogden College.

J. K. MCGINNIS,

City Tax Collector.

City Tax Collector J. K. McGinnis was born at Hadley, Warren county, Kentucky, and obtained his education in the county schools there, and the city schools of Bowling Green. He has lived in this city for twenty-three years.

Shortly after his school days were over he was appointed a deputy sheriff, and remained as such during the administrations of J. D. Hines and W. S. Ragland, in all about twelve years. He then went into the bakery and confectionery business, remaining sixteen months, after which he conducted a retail grocery for nine years. He then engaged in the coal business, selling

There is probably no one merchant in Bowling Green that bears a more respected business name than Dave Rabold, the popular, progressive, and up-to-date merchant tailor and gentlemen's furnisher, and he has been longer in this line of business, as clerk and proprietor, than any one in the city.

He was born here, and educated here, and has lived here practically all his life. For thirty-four years he was a clerk in this city, and during all that time he had but three employers, a business recommendation which requires no comments. Six years ago this month he began business for himself, and the general satisfaction he has given the public is proven by the statement that each year's business has shown a marked improvement over the preceding one, until today his business is in a class by itself.

Dave Rabold carries a full and handsome line of furnishing goods, including hats, caps, shirts, underwear, socks, neckwear, shoes for men and boys, sweaters, etc., and is agent here for "Pingree" shoes, "Stetson" hats, Furgerson & McKinney shirts, George P. Ide, "Silver Brand" collars, "Famous Interwoven" hose, and numerous other well known makes. He also has an extensive "Custom Tailoring" department, and makes clothing to measure that fits, wears and looks right, and is right.

A feature of this business is the cleaning, dyeing, pressing and repairing department. He has the only French cleaning machinery in the county operated by electricity, and the clothing he cleans, whether for men or women, never fades or shrinks. His pressing club cares for your clothing for a nominal monthly charge, and all pressing, cleaning, or repair work is called for and delivered by his own wagons. Briefly, Dave Rabold will dress you, clean you, press you, and make you look and feel like a new person, and he is certainly entitled to all the success he is having today.

His store is at 314 Main street, opposite the Baptist church, and just above the Mansard Hotel.

out his interest in that line in December, 1910. In April, 1910, he was elected City Tax Collector by the City Council, which position he now holds. J. K. McGinnis is a firm believer in Bowling Green, and recently erected a handsome residence on State street.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK,
Our Oldest Banking Institution.

The American National Bank is one of the most important factors in the commercial and business life of Bowling Green and Warren county, and, in fact, of the several adjoining counties, for its business and influence are not confined to this immediate vicinity. The bank without the trust feature was organized a number of years ago as a private company known as Barclay, Potter and Company. Mr. Barclay later withdrew from the institution, and it was organized as Potter-Matlock & Company. Under this name the bank prospered, increasing its business year by year until it became the county's strongest bank. Its growth in business and in popular favor was little less than phenomenal, but has always had its head men noted for their financial ability, for their conservative methods and for their disposition to adhere to every legitimate banking. There has never crept into the management of this bank any inclination to speculate, for it was founded upon direct opposition to the idea and has been consistently and continuously conducted along these lines.

It does a general banking business, caring for deposits, buying and selling exchange, issuing drafts payable in all parts of the country, and travelers checks payable in all parts of the world, negotiating loans and making collections at all available points, and allows three per cent on time deposits, compounded semi-annually.

The bank is well equipped with all modern safeguards, fire and burglar proof safes and vaults, and every precaution is taken for the safety of depositors. The capital is $125,000.00, stockholders responsibility $125,000.00, and the surplus and undivided profits, $37,268.74. It is a member of both the State and American Bankers' Associations. The officers of the American National Bank are: J. Whit Potter, president; M. O. Hughes, vice president; S. M. Matlock, cashier; B. P. Eubank, assistant cashier, and the directors are: M. O. Hughes, James C. Sims, Adolph Bloch, J. Whit Potter, S. M. Matlock, J. R. Patterson and F. P. Hays.

The Potter-Matlock Trust Company was incorporated, and became an adjunct of the American National Bank in January, 1905. The business of this trust company is to act as executor of wills, administrator of estates, guardian of minor children, financial agent, assignee, etc. Its large capital guarantees absolute fidelity. It is practically perpetual. It combines the capital the brains, the experience and the judgment of many men of proven financial ability. It ishedged about with stringent laws. It makes regular sworn statements to the public. It is examined by a National Bank Examiner, and is under the supervision of the secretary of state. It loans money on real estatemortgages, and keeps investments of this kind on hand for sale.

The trust funds are kept separate and apart from the bank funds proper and are invested in the name of the estate to which they belong and are secured by mortgages and real estate liens. The trust feature has proven exceedingly popular and the Trust Company is getting a great deal of this kind of business to handle.

In the matter of winding up and settling estates the methods are particularly commendable. It can wind up estates with less cost and with more satisfaction to the parties interested than can possibly be done in any other way. There is an element of safety in the trust company as executor or administrator that is not always found in personal executors or administrators. The officers of the Potter-Matlock Trust Company are: J. Whit Potter, president; Dr. Joe W. Ford, vice president; Euclid Hardcastle, vice president; G. D. Sledge, secretary and treasurer, and the directors are: J. Whit Potter, Dr. J. L. Neel, Dr. Joe W. Ford, W. H. Rabold, F. P. Hays, S. M. Matlock, M. O. Hughes, W. L. McNeal, E. Hardcastle, A. T. McCormack.

E. J. FENSTERMACHER,

Pastor, Christian Church.

Rev. E. J. Fenstermacher is the minister for the congregation of Christians worshipping on Tenth St., near State. He came to this pastorate from Poplar Bluff, Mo., in the fall, September of 1908. Born and reared in Ohio, in the vicinity of Dayton and Springfield, he came to Kentucky in 1883, making his home in Trimble Co. Here he united with what is known as the "Old Mt. Byrd" congregation of Christian.

His wife was Miss Florence Allen, daughter of F. G. Allen. Then one of the ablest ministers of the Christians and editor of the "Old Path Guide." In the fall of 1887, he entered the college of the Bible of the then Kentucky, now Transylvania University. Graduating with the class of 1890, he ministered for ten years in Bourbon Co., at Clinton and Millersburg. After a short pastorate with the first church of Newport, Ky., he entered upon the work at Lexington, Mo. Here a most delightful ministry answered and a strong united congregation developed. Owing to the ill health of Mrs. Fenstermacher and the necessity of removal to a milder climate, Mr. Fenstermacher offered his services to the Home Missionary Board of the church and was stationed at Charleston, S. C. Here the church was practically reorganized and excellent chapel built. His next change of importance was at Poplar Bluff, Mo. In his ministry of two and one half years in this field the membership was doubled and one of the handsomest and most costly church buildings between St. Louis and Little Rock, Ark. was built.

Since coming to Bowling Green the work has progressed and all the departments of the church are active. A lot on one of the most desirable corners has been secured and the committee on a church plan is investigating with regard to an adequate building for the future work of the congregation.

Rev. E. J. Fenstermacher is an eloquent and forceful speaker, and a firm believer in co-operation for the good of the city, and the greater unity of action among the churches. He is President of the Ministerial Association of Bowling Green.

J. H. DAUGHTRY,

Leader in Horse Goods.

J. H. Daughtry is not only the oldest but the largest dealer in harness, etc., in Warren county, and carries the largest assortment of horse goods. He has been in business in Bowling Green for thirty years, and all that time on the block where he now is. He learned the trade with his father, Richard Daughtry, and is a practical harness maker. For twenty-two years he has been in business for himself and a few years ago purchased the building he now occupies, and moved into it in July, 1910.

He carries the largest line of goods in this section of Kentucky, including saddles, harness, bridles, collars, robes, blankets, whips, and has the agency for the celebrated "Whitman" saddles, bits, stirrups, and spurs. He also makes "hand made" harness that he guarantees in every way, and does repairing of all kinds. None but experienced hands are employed in the work rooms, and no work is turned out but what is right in every particular.

From the immense line of horse goods that are carried there, anybody can find exactly what they need, and this no doubt accounts in a large measure for the splendid business he enjoys. Besides this he is undoubtedly the largest harness dealer and carries the most complete stock of horse goods in southern Kentucky, and is the only exclusive harness dealer in Bowling Green.

J. H. Daughtry is a firm believer in this city, and considers it one of the best business cities in the State of Kentucky, and can always be relied upon to do his share towards advancing the interests of Bowling Green where he has been in business for many years.

This large and complete harness store is at 926 State street.

Our beautiful and well-kept parks would be a credit to any city four times the size of Bowling Green.

REV. THOS. J. HAYES,
Pastor St. Joseph's Church.

In writing a brief biography of Father Hayes it is right that it should be preceded by a short review of the history of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, of which he is pastor.

From a very humble beginning, the membership of this church has increased to large numbers and great influence. The little frame church, and the little melodeon which, sixty years ago, were looked upon as wonderful institutions, have been relegated to the rear. In the course of time a larger brick church was built, and two larger pipe organs were substituted. Today

All had been given to the building and adornment of the present church, which remains a shining evidence of his unceasing toil and heroic self-sacrifice. A modest marble slab marks his resting place beside the main altar of the church.

On the death of Father De Vries, the Rev. Thomas J. Hayes was appointed pastor. He was born in Bagnalstown, County Carlow, Ireland, August 1, 1858. In company with Rev. Richard Davis he came to America in November, 1874, completing his philosophical and theological studies at St. Joseph's college, Bardstown, and Preston Park Seminary, Louisville. He was raised to the priesthood June 25, 1881. He had charge of the missions attach-a magnificent gothic structure, and a grand organ lend their charms to the divine service; and it is no idle boast to say that St. Joseph's is one of the most prosperous and well equipped congregations of the Diocese of Louisville, that is becoming noted for its numerous and handsome church buildings.

The first pastor, the Rev. Joseph De Vries, was born in Gerwen, Province of North Brabant, Holland, June 30, 1831. He came to Kentucky in 1853, and was raised to the priesthood July 15, 1855. In 1857, he took up his residence in Bowling Green, where he continued to labor unremittingly in the ed to Hopkinsville, afterwards being called to the Cathedral in Louisville, whence he was sent to Chicago, Kentucky. Later he was appointed by the Rt. Rev. Bishop, vice president of St. Joseph's College, Bardstown. On August 14, 1887, he was appointed pastor of St. Joseph's church, Bowling Green, where he still remains. To his indomitable energy the congregation is indebted for the beautiful organ set up in the church a few years ago, and to other improvements. Father Hayes is a believer in Bowling Green, and is greatly beloved and respected by ev-

RESIDENCE OF G. C. SOUTHWICK.

WARREN STATE BANK,
Growing Older and Stronger.

Banking as a business is perhaps the only commercial undertaking which can not be exploited along the lines of ordinary business enterprises. To the position of trust as the watchful guardian of the property of others is added the function of financial advisor of its patrons, who turn to it for its judgment and protection under the pressure of uncommon emergencies.

It is therefore a matter of no insignificant importance in the selection of a bank for our deposits and as the medium for future financial relations often resulting in the closest commercial comity, that the question of conservative management and experience in finance should be given the most careful consideration.

Every safeguard that skill can suggest has been taken in providing a modern banking equipment in this bank. The vaults are fire and burglar-proof, and contain a number of safety deposit boxes for the storing of papers and other valuables.

A general banking business is conducted, viz.: Caring for deposits, buying and selling bonds, issuing drafts payable in all parts of the country and making collections at all available points, and it is a member of the State Bankers' Association and is insured against burglary and daylight hold-ups covering the amount of cash and negotia paper carried daily, and three per cent interest as allowed on time deposits.

The Warren State Bank is our youngest financial institution, it having been organized and incorporated February 1, 1910, and from the opening of its doors for business it has made wonderful strides in the right direction until today it is acknowledged as among the leading banking institutions in this section of Kentucky. In a little over one year the deposits have nearly doubled, and while it is growing older, it is growing stronger.

There would be no business for this bank, unless the business was conducted for the benefit of its customers.

It is the help that they are able to give others that helps them.

It's the ACCOUNT that they are mostly interested in, and the MAN behind it—not the amount.

Some people dislike to enter a bank door, because they think their business is too small for the banker to bother about.

They invite such people to come in and use this bank, and are in business purposely to be bothered.

The capital of the bank is $50,000.00, and is owned by people who live in Warren county, Bowling Green, and vicinity.

The Warren State Bank does not ask for a share of your business without expecting to take care of it in every consistent way, and the directors and officers are always ready and willing to offer any accommodations within their power and within the limits of "a square deal," and their best service is at your disposal, and the bank will be glad at any time to receive all or a part of your account.

The business of this bank has so increased in the little over a year since its organization, that larger quarters have become imperative, and the large store room at 917 College street is being remodeled and refurnished, and within a few days the bank will be moved and ready for business in its new, handsome and modern quarters.

The officers of the Warren State Bank are: J. N. Russell, president; Chas. Roemer, vice president; L. U. Cornelius, cashier, and the directors are: John R. Campbell, Robt. Crump, Chas. H. Smith, W. Y. McGinnis, Chas. Roemer, G. D. Milliken, C. W. Stone, C. H. Bailey, J. N. Russell, L. U. Cornelius.

J. W. STEM,

Groceries, Provisions, Etc.

J. W. Stem has been identified with the grocery business for over twenty years, and for ten years has conducted a grocery and general store at 1218 Broadway where he carries a large line of staple and fancy groceries, dry goods, shoes, notions, flour, feed, etc., and in connection he has a first class meat market.

About twenty months ago he purchased the business at 216 Main street, which is in charge of W. A. Cassaday, and is known as The City Market. In this down town store is carried groceries, canned goods, baked goods, fruits, vegetables, cigars, confectionery, fresh, smoked and salt meats, and in fact about everything to be found in a first class store of this kind. J. W. Stem also buys country produce of all kinds, for which he pays the highest market prices.

Conducting two large stores he is in a position to purchase in very large quantities, and to select only the best quality of everything, and as his business is a cash one, he gives his many customers at both stores the benefit of his money-saving cash system.

The city of Bowling Green owns its street lighting plant and water works. Considering the many advantages afforded, the tax rate is lower than any town of its size in Kentucky.

J. H. GILLIAM.

Commonwealth Attorney

J. H. Gilliam, Commonwealth Attorney for the Eighth district was born in Allen county, Kentucky, September 21, 1861. He was reared on a farm in West Allen, and after his school days were over taught school for twelve years. He moved to Scottsville, Kentucky, from the farm, and read law, and in the summer of 1893, was admitted to the bar, since which time he has practiced his profession in Scottsville. In 1893, he ran for the legislature from Allen County, and was elected by two votes, but was declared not elected by a partisan Legislature. In 1895, he was elected to the legislature and served one term—there being a special session for the election of a United States Senator, when Senator De Boe was elected.

In 1897, J. H. Gilliam was appointed Postmaster at Scottsville and held the position four years. In 1905, he was elected County Attorney of Allen County, and served four years and in November 1909, he was elected Commonwealth Attorney for the Eighth district without opposition. He is the son of J. D. Gilliam, a Methodist-Southern minister now living at Smiths Grove, and is married and has five children, oneson, W. D. Gilliam, being his law partner. He was a member of the Republican State Campaign Committee for Kentucky in the 1908, elections, and was a delegate to the Chicago Convention. He is a Mason, Odd Fellow, and Modern Woodman, and has served all lodges in their highest local officers.

J. H. Gilliam has always been interested in church and Sunday School work. He is a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, and a teacher in the Sunday School, for many years being superintendent of the school at Scottsville. During the time that he has been Commonwealth Attorney, he has proven a capable, efficient official, and while believing that laws should be enforced and crime punished, at the same time believes an opportunity should be given the evil-doer when a disposition of reformation is shown.

W. F. FOLLIN,

Real Estate and Insurance.

Wickliffe F. Follin is one of our younger business men who has been particularly successful in the business he has chosen, and whose success can be attributed to hard work, industry, and the strictly honorable business methods he carries into every transaction. He was born in Warren county, Kentucky, and has lived in Bowling Green for over twenty years, and is a graduate of Ogden College.

He started in his present line of business six years ago, and since November, 1909, has been for himself.

He buys, sells, exchanges and rents real estate in both city and country, and gives particular attention to collecting rentals.

Insurance is a feature of his business and he writes Life, Fire, Tornado, Tobacco, Plate Glass, Liability, Bonding, Burglary, and in fact every form of insurance, representing some of the largest and strongest companies in the world, companies that pay all losses promptly, among them are the Commercial Union Assurance Company of London; Caledonian Assurance Company of Scotland; Philadelphia Underwriters; "Insurance Company of North America"; "Fire Association of Philadelphia, etc. The motto, "Suppose You Have a Fire Tonight," is generally used by W. F. Follin, and he has brought his name into prominence among the business men of this locality. It is a very appropriate motto, and worthy of careful consideration. Suppose you should have a fire tonight? If so, are you insured against loss? If you are not don't you think from a business standpoint alone that it would be a good investment to insure your property against loss? Call up W. F. Follin—old phone 206-x, and see how little this can be done for, or see him personally at his office in the McCormack Building. Rooms 19-20.

COLUMBIA THEATER CO.,

High Class Attractions.

The Columbia Theaters, numbers one and two, are new attractions for the people of Bowling Green and vicinity, and since their spring opening early this year have received a large patronage from the very best people of the city. Nothing but high class attractions in both motion pictures and vaudeville are presented, and the managers make it a rule to permit nothing to be shown but what is moral, clean, healthy and instructive. Nothing of an objectionable character is ever permitted and objectionable characters are never allowed in, or about, either of the houses. The attaches are in neat uniforms and show every attention and courtesy to patrons, hence it is a perfectly safe and proper place of amusement for ladies and children to attend with, or without, escorts.

Columbia Theater number one is devoted to motion pictures and illustrated songs. The pictures are changed daily and only the best subject films from the leading makers of the country are used, while the illustrated songs are rendered by singers of note. Performances at this house are given both afternoon and evening, doors being opened at 1 p. m., and 7 p. m. This has become a popular resort for ladies to drop into while shopping and enjoy the pictures.

Columbia Theater number two is given over to vaudeville and motion pictures, the vaudeville acts being changed twice a week, and the pictures changed every day. The same high class of pictures are used here as at the theater number one, while the vaudeville acts by the Western Association are on split time between Cincinnati, Nashville, Memphis and New Orleans, thus assuring only the high class acts that are given in the large cities. Performances are only given in the evening at this house, doors being opened at 7 p. m. Both houses have been entirely remodeled and refitted with opera chairs, etc., and both houses are under the direct protection of the police and fire departments, thus affording every safety to patrons, and special reserved seats are kept for ladies and children without escorts.

J. O. Tilden, president, came here recently from Memphis, and C. A. Chivers, secretary-treasurer, has been here since the opening of theater number one. Both are gentlemen whom we are glad to welcome to Bowling Green, and we feel convinced from the high class of entertainments that they are giving us, that both theaters will continue to receive the large and appreciative support they are entitled to.

J. B. SIMMONS,

Staple and Fancy Groceries.

Another of our younger merchants who is making a splendid reputation for himself by his careful attention to business and the high grade of goods he sells is J. B. Simmons, whose well kept grocery and meat store is on High, between Eleventh and Twelfth streets, new phone 87. He has been connected with the grocery business for over five years, and on January 1, 1911, purchased the Dobson grocery, and has since that time conducted it himself. He carries a very complete line of staple and fancy groceries, canned goods, baked goods, flour, evaporated fruits of all kinds, fruits, vegetables, country produce, confectionery, cigars, tobacco, etc., and a line of fresh, salt, and smoked meats, and a feature of the last named department is the home-made sausage and home rendered lard which is made in his own place, and he is the agent here for Kings & Co. celebrated smoked and dried meats. His aim is to handle only the best of everything, and he carries such well-known specialties as "Galt House" Mocha and Java, "The Barrington Hall famous steel cut coffee, and the "Rose City" brand of canned goods.

He has associated with him Otis Lee, and the other employees who were with Mr. Dobson, and who give much assistance in the general conducting of the business.

While J. B. Simmons has been in business for himself but a comparatively short while, yet he is well and favorably known in Bowling Green, and is doing an excellent business. He delivers goods to all sections of the city with his own wagons, and orders by telephone receive prompt and careful attention.

THE BOWLING GREEN

Furniture Manufacturing Co.

The Bowling Green Furniture Manufacturing Company, of which L. C. Gooch is President, are manufacturers of high grade furniture. The business is exclusively wholesale and the product is shipped to all sections of the country.

AARON PHILLIPS,

Brick Contractor.

Aaron Phillips was born in Warren county, Kentucky, on a farm. He obtained his education in the county schools, and later enlisted in the 8th Kentucky Cavalry, and was mustered out in 1864. After this he was employed by the government to guard the wagon trains across the prairies from Leavenworth, Kan., to Julesburg, Col. He returned to Kentucky and started into the brick business with William (Bill) Partillo, and was afterward with Harrison Barnes. In 1880, he began business for himself and operated a small hand brick yard with a capacity of about ten thousand bricks a day. In 1899 this was changed to a modern yard, equipped with good machinery, and having a capacity of forty-five thousand bricks a day. This yard is located on Park street, and runs from Second to Fourth streets.

Aaron Phillips is also a contractor in brick work of every description up to a finished brick house or business block, and as he employs none but experienced workmen, his work is always of the best character. He has associated with him is two sons, H. S. and W. W. Phillips. His office is at Park and Fifth streets.

BRACHEY & McNAMARA,

Bakery and Confectionery.

This is one of the oldest established bakeries in Bowling Green, it having been here over twenty years. On September 24, 1910, the business was purchased by the present firm, composed of A. H. Brachey and R. E. McNamara, both of whom were well and favorably known here before the present firm was formed. As soon as they took possession they made many improvements to the place, including an electric motor, additions to the restaurant, etc. They are both wholesalers and retailers and make everything in baked goods from bread to fancy cake, the bread is also sold by many of the progressive grocers of the city. They as well carry a fine assortment of fruit, cigars, and confectionery, including Lowney's celebrated chocolates, both in boxes and in bulk, they also manufacture a line of their own candies.

A specialty is made of ice cream, and they have a modern ice cream factory equipment. The ice cream is made from pure cream and is sold at retail and wholesale, and served by the plate in the parlor connected with the place. An up-to-date sanitary soda fountain is a fixture worthy of special mention, and from it is served delicious and healthy drinks of all kinds.

A restaurant and short order department is a feature of the establishment, and everything is served in an appetizing, home-like manner, properly cooked and composed of the best the market affords.

Everything about the place is splendidly appointed, and the furnishings, and general appearance of the interior of the store, as well as the handsome display made in the show windows has the attractiveness of a city store.

The bakery and confectionery of Brachey & McNamara is at 428 Main street, opposite the park.

F. Y. PATTERSON,

City Engineer.

The section of Warren county known far and wide as "Kettle Creek," has perhaps furnished Bowling Green more men who have figured prominently in the political and business affairs of Bowling Green than any other section of the county. Youree Patterson was born and spent the greater part of his life in that community, which is near Rockfield, in the southern part of the county. He secured his education in the common schools of the county and was in school for some time at the Male College, in Gallatin, Tenn. He returned from school and settled down to life on the farm, and in 1888 was married to Miss Mamie Lively. In the year 1893 he came to Bowling Green. He embarked in the livery business with his brother when he first came here, and for nine years this partnership continued. He sold his interest and took up the business of trading in mules on an extensive scale, and at present is a member of the firm of Lazarus & Patterson, the largest mule traders in Kentucky.

In 1895 he was elected to the office of sheriff of the county, and held the office until January 1, 1910. In December, 1909, and while he yet held the office of sheriff, he was elected city engineer by the members of the Board of Public Works, and took over the duties of the office as soon as his term of sheriff expired. F. Y. Patterson, since he has held this office, has shown the same careful, painstaking methods that he did while sheriff.

LAZARUS & PATTERSON,

Mule Dealers.

Bowling Green is one of the largest mule markets in the entire United States, and Lazarus and Patterson are probably the largest mule dealers in Kentucky. They ship in immense quantities to all sections of the country, but mainly to the southern markets. Their large stables on lower Main street are a living scene on shipping days when hundreds of mules are being loaded into the cars for shipment.

Harry Lazarus and F. Y. Patterson are the individual members of the firm and the first named is a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from this district.

TO FARMERS OF WARREN

And Adjoining Counties.

There seems to be in the minds of some of my best friends and patrons an idea that I have quit the Insurance business. Now I want to say in this connection that I have not quit the business, and the business has not quit me, and I am still in the ring for all the good business I can get.

With thanks for past favors, I remain yours,

J. W. Collins.

Bowling Green is the Best city in Kentucky to live in, or to have business in, and is rapidly becoming one of the largest Industrial centers in the State.

Bowling Green is the largest market for mules of any town in the State.

L. C. GOOCH LUMBER CO.

Hardwood Lumber.

This business was established in 1903 by L. C. Gooch, and moved here in September, 1908. In July 1909, the business was reorganized and incorporated under the present name, the officers now being L. C. Gooch, president; H. H. Field, vice president; C. M. Gooch, secretary-treasurer.

The L. C. Gooch Lumber Company are manufacturers and wholesale dealers in hardwood lumber, oak, poplar, ash, hickory, and chestnut, and make a specialty of high grade plain and quartered oak. They have yards and mills in both Kentucky and Tennessee.

The Company is one of the largest in southern Kentucky their plant here covering four acres of ground, and the mill capacity is thirty thousand feet of finished lumber a day. They are also dealers in dressed lumber, sash, doors, blinds, interior finish, etc., much of which is manufactured in their own mill. The business is mainly wholesale, although some local retail business is done. The shipments are made largely north and east, and a switch into the yards enables them to load and unload directly into and from the cars. Since the business was brought here the capacity of the plant has been doubled, and one hundred per cent more lumber is carried. The illustration in this paper shows the yards and mill before its capacity was increased.

The timber used is brought both standing and in log form, and obtained from the farmers, and also shipped in by river and rail.

An important feature of the business is the building and contracting department, where plans and estimates are cheerfully furnished, and contracts taken for the construction of buildings of any description from a cottage to a business block, either in Bowling Green or away from here. This department is in charge of C. A. Campbell who is the foreman, and is an experienced man in this line and well known in Bowling Green.

L. C. Gooch is also President of the Bowling Green Furniture Manufacturing Company.

The L. C. Gooch Lumber Company have made a remarkably enviable record since they have been here, and their business has increased from month to month until now they occupy a very prominent position in the front ranks of the lumber concerns of Kentucky.

The office of the Company is at 712 Church street.

FREL KEUNE, JR.

The Well Known Grocer.

Fred Keune, Jr., is a son of F. H. Keune who had been in business in this city for over twenty years. He was educated at St. Columba's College, and has resided here all his life.

Four years ago he started in the grocery business for himself, and during that time has built up an exceptionally fine trade.

He carries a complete line of staple and fancy groceries, canned goods, teas, coffees, flour, baked goods, fruit, etc., and tobacco, confectionery, eggs, butter cheese, fish, poultry, meats, etc., and in fact about everything one can expect to find in an establishment of this kind.

He makes a specialty of fine fancy groceries, such as canned crabs, oysters, deviled ham, mushrooms, shrimp, etc., and particular attention is called to the Engelhard Filson club and Pendennis blended coffee in packages, and Engelhard Filson Club and Pendennis' Teas, and his line of "Sugar Loaf" canned vegetables, Swift's Premium hams and bacon, and the genuine "Seaship" oysters are also to be found here.

Fred Keune, Jr., has gained a reputation for the numerous varieties of cheese he handles, from Imported Roquefort to the delicious domestic full cream cheese. He is also a large buyer of country produce for which he pays the highest market prices. He delivers orders to all sections of the city, and orders by telephone, Old 235—new 230, receive prompt attention. His store is at 102 Main street, second door from Adams street.

J. K. MCGINNIS.

RESIDENCE OF J. K. MCGINNIS.

DR. C. F. CRECELIUS, CANDIDATE FOR THE DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION FOR SECRETARY OF STATE.

C. F. CRECELIUS,

For Secretary of State.

Doctor C. F. Crecelius, representative of Pendleton county district, was born in Falmouth, Kentucky, and is a dentist by profession. He is a Democrat, and defeated Jno. Massey, Republican, by 394 majority. He served in the House, session of 1908-1909, and was closely identified with the Burley Tobacco Society, and other tobacco interests. He is the author of the "Crecelius Law" enacted at the 1908 session, which materially strengthened the tobacco pools throughout the State. This law was sustained by the Court of Appeals. He is secretary of the Kentucky State Wool Growers Association pool.

He is a present member in the legislature of the following committees.

GEORGE T. MASSEY,

Staple and Fancy Groceries.

Geo. T. Massey was born and reared in this city and received his education in the city schools and at St. Columba's Academy. When yet in his teens he started in the grocery business and some seventeen years ago, branched out for himself, opening a store with a partner on Main street a few doors from where he is now located. The business was a success from the start and their trade rapidly built up. A few years later the partnership was dissolved, but George T. Massey continued in the business at a new stand. He is possessed of splendid business capacity and has made a success of everything he has undertaken.

He was appointed a member of the Board of Public Works by Mayor Wilson and made a most efficient official, always having the best interests of the city at heart while in office. He carries a fine assortment of staple and fancy groceries and meats, and enjoys a large business. His store is on Main, between Adams and Kentucky streets.

PROF. T. C. CHERRY,

Supt. of City Schools.

VIRGIL R. SCOTT,

Dry Goods, Clothing, Etc.

One of the best known and most popular dry goods houses in Bowling Green and Warren county, is the one conducted by Virgil R. Scott, at 923 College street. He began business in March, 1903, in a very small way, and in a very small store, and this business has so increased from year to year, that he has found it necessary twice to enlarge his store. Today he has a handsome store building, 30x100 feet, constructed of brick, three stories high, of which he occupies two floors. The show windows are worthy of special mention, and are at all times attractively dressed with the very latest novelties, and a glimpse at these windows gives one a general idea of the proper and fashionable articles to be worn.

Virgil R. Scott carries a line of dry goods, silks, dress goods, corsets, notions, shoes, clothing, trunks, ladies and gentlemen's furnishings goods, hats, valises, umbrellas, and in fact about anything to be found in a city establishment of this kind. He is agent here for "Emerson" shoes for men, "Particrian" shoes for women, Kaufman and "Sterling" clothing for men, "Headlight" overalls, "Emerson" stiff hats, "C. M. Heden" soft hats, and numerous other equally well known manufacturers. He is also the representative here for the "Schoenbrun Tailoring Company" of Chicago, and the "Columbia Tailoring Company," of Cincinnati, firms who have a country-wide reputation for making to measure exclusive styles in men's custom clothing at reasonable prices.

One department of this business to which particular attention is given, and which is conducted under the firm name of Scott & Dies, is the cleaning and pressing department. French dry cleaning is done in a superior manner by experts, who operate the latest and most improved machinery, and a pressing club which keeps one's clothing in style and shape at a nominal price a month is also maintained.

Virgil R. Scott has been in business here for so long that he has built up an enviable reputation, and the fact that he has had to twice enlarge his store within a few years is proof of the increase in business.

TROY STEAM LAUNDRY.

Our Oldest Laundry.

The proprietors of the Troy Laundry are Sam E. and George H. Moseley. They have both had years experience in the laundry business. This is the oldest laundry establishment in the city, and has been under the present management and partnership for the past fourteen years. The hustling proprietors have added to the

JUDGE D. G. PARK,

For United States Senator.

Judge D. G. Park who is a candidate for United States Senator is a native Kentuckian having been born and raised in Graves County, a central County of the Purchase. He grew to young manhood upon the farm having attended the public schools in the community but uniformly pursuing a special course of studies under his teachers, adding a systematic policy of general reading in his private studies at home. In early youth he set his heart on the law as a profession for life. He left the farm when nineteen years of age and attended Marshall County Seminary, at Benton, Kentucky, under the instruction of Prof. A. F. Hamlin and his wife and pursued special course of studies for a year. He then entered the law office of W. W. Tice at Mayfield, Kentucky, and studied law under him for a year. Mr. Tice was a great lawyer with classical as well as legal learning and commanded a large practice. He soon became interested in his young law student and guided him in his general reading as well as in his law studies. After this year's experience in the law office, and the Court House with his preceptor, Judge Park on special examination was admitted to the Senior Class in the Law Department of the University of Louisville in October, 1876, and graduated at the close of the session in 1877. He then returned to Mayfield and spent another year in the office practicing with Mr. Tice, after which he opened an office for practice by himself, preferring to test his strength alone rather than under the shade of the great abilities of his preceptor. He rose rapidly in his profession and soon commanded a large practice leading in the management of his cases through the lower Courts and in the Appellate Courts with marked success.

In May, 1878, he married Miss Nellie E. Hanson of Mayfield, Kentucky, and they now have a family of three daughters.

When West Kentucky College was founded at Mayfield in 1885, Judge Park donated to it the beautiful site or campus of eight acres of ground on which it is situated. Later he took a two years private course of studies under one of the teachers of this institution with recitations in his private law office at Mayfield. He steadily grew as a Lawyer at Mayfield until 1903, when he located at Paducah where he has since had a large practice, participating with remarkable success in a great deal of the heaviest litigation at the bar.

Judge Park has never held public office except he was elected Judge of the Common Pleas Court to succeed Judge W. S. Bishop in 1891, in the First Judicial District composed of seven Counties including, Ballard, Carlisle, Hickman, Graves, Livingston, Marshall, and McCracken, the Court having jurisdiction of all civil business in these Counties. But the adoption of the New Constitution abolished the office after he had held it for only sixteen months and he declined to stand for election in the new District under the New Constitution, preferring to practice law. When he came upon the bench the docket in each County was behind and very much crowded, but he manifested such aptitude for the work that the dockets were clear when he retired from the office. The records show his decisions stood the test of appeals with unusual accuracy, and many leading cases are officially reported from the Court of Appeals as monuments of his ability.

In politics Judge Park has always been a Democrat, participating first in the Tilden-Hendricks Campaign in 1876, while he was still under age. In the Longmoor State Convention he was selected as a member of the Democratic State Central Committee from the First Congressional District and served in that capacity through different campaigns until 1894. In the Democratic State Convention to select delegates to the Democratic National Convention in 1892, he was selected by the First Congressional District as a member of the Committee on Resolutions and served on the Sub-Committee in drafting the platform which was approved by the full Committee and adopted by the Convention.

He actively supported Gen. Hardin and the full Democratic State Ticket in 1895, but in the Presidential election of 1896, he supported the Palmer-Buckner Ticket. The latter organization having disbanded, in all subsequent campaigns, as in all prior ones, he supported the regular National, State and local Democratic tickets.

Judge Park is quiet, unassuming, and rather unobtrusive in demeanor. But he is vigilant and aggressive in all contests, rendering him a formidable opponent in whatever he undertakes. His ability is universally recognized, and Kentucky could make no mistake in electing him to the United States Senate, for undoubtedly he would bring into the office the same upright business methods that has marked his career since he entered professional life, and it is our candid opinion that the Commonwealth of Kentucky, and the great United States would be much better off, if we had more men like Judge D. G. Park to represent us at the National Capitol.

RESIDENCE OF GARLAND SLEDGE.

THE E. B. SUMPTER,
Plumbing and Heating Co.

This is the leading plumbing and heating establishment in Bowling Green, and Warren county, and enjoys a very large business. It was established thirty years ago by E. B. Sumpter, and in August, 1909, Ernest Daughtry became interested in the business, which was re-organized and incorporated. The present officers are E. B. Sumpter, President, Ernest Daughtry, secretary, Treasurer, and General Manager. Ernest Daughtry Morehead and Court House were done by them. The work in these buildings is of scientific workmanship and demonstrates most thoroughly their ability to execute promptly and accurately work on a large scale.

The company are dealers and contractors in plumbing, steam and hot water heating, water, gas and sewer pipe, pumps, wind mills, acetylene gas machines and carbide, and water systems for country homes. They go anywhere for business, write, phone or wire them.

Their place of business is a model plumbing house. Here is tastefully had been in the employ of E. B. Sumpter for nine years previous to the contained in them are from the brain organization of the present company. Both are expert workman and employ only the best and most experienced assistants.

Exhibitions of their work can be seen in many of the prominent homes and business blocks of the city, and the entire sanitary plumbing in the City Hall building, new Mansard, new displayed as complete of line of toilet and bath room supplies as can be seen between Louisville and Nashville, and in many instances the stock will be found larger and of a more selected nature than many similar houses in those cities carry.

The office and salesrooms of the E. B. Sumpter Plumbing and Heating Company are at 916 State street, and the warehouse and pipe yards are on Rock alley,

ENOCHS & KELLY,
Funeral Directors.

Charles Enoch and W. C. Kelley are the individual members of this well known firm of funeral directors and embalmers, and the first named gentleman is the practical manager of the business. He has had fifteen years experience in this line in St. Louis and Kansas City, and has been in business here for about two years and a half. He is a licensed embalmer and a graduate of the American School of Embalming, St. Louis, Mo. Eight months ago the present firm was organized.

Enochs & Kelly have the best appointed and equipped undertaking establishment in southern Kentucky. The building they occupy is modern and away from the noise and traffic of the city. Everything is new and handsome from the modern funeral cars, flower wagon, etc., to the smallest details of the business, the horses, etc., and they are in a position to take entire charge of funerals from the time of death until the last rites are performed.

Charles Enoch is a careful, courteous, experienced man, and where his services are required gives all calls his personal attention and supervision. His long experience places him in a position where he can consult and advise his patrons upon all matters to their advantage.

The office and undertaking establishment of Enochs & Kelly is at 516 Tenth street.

ODD FELLOWS BUILDING

J. N. RUSSELL

Lumber Company

J. N. Russell has been engaged in the lumber business since 1881, and in Bowling Green since 1896. He is prominent in business circles here, and President of the Warren State Bank, a banking institution which in a few years has sprung into the front ranks of similar institutions in Southern Kentucky.

The present company of the J. N. Russell Lumber Company, was organized two years ago, and do one of the largest trades in this section. They are wholesale and retail dealers in rough and dressed lumber, sash, doors, blinds, shingles and lath, as well as all kinds of scroll and hand work. The office is at 928 State street, new phone, 301, old phone 302—and the lumber yards are on the railroad. The business is both local and away from here, shipments being made to all points by rail or boat.

They are also contractors and builders, and are prepared to erect any class of structure from a tobacco barn to a business block, in Bowling Green, Warren county, or anywhere else, and plans and estimates are cheerfully furnished. This part of the business has assumed large proportions since the company began business two years ago, and they are destined to become a factor in the building interests of this vicinity.

NEWS JOB PRINTING IS BEST

EVANSVILLE-BOWLING GREEN Packet Company.

Bowling Green's river interests mean much to the business men and ship- pers of this city and locality.

The advantage of a location on a navigable stream is in the main twofold: First, it furnishes means of transportation to considerable areas of territory not reached by any other means, and, Second, the competition presented by available water transportation generally has an influence to lower rates by rail to and from points so located.

The value of both of these factors depends entirely upon the maintenance on such navigable streams of active, energetic and responsible navigation companies, whose rates are adjusted, not only with fairness to the interests they serve, but with fairness to themselves, and upon a basis that will furnish sufficient revenue to properly maintain and operate such properties, and furnish a fair and reasonable return to the owners on the amounts invested therein.

The history of the struggles of the water transportation lines in the Middle West is pathetic, in that it shows that they have been the greatest enemies to each other; that many of them have been gradually worn out and destroyed by rate wars among themselves, and by lack of support on the part of their patrons, in the maintenance of just and reasonable rates for transportation service performed.

The Evansville and Bowling Green Packet Company, operating a line of packet steamers between Bowling Green, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., on the Ohio River, and Mammoth Cave, Kentucky, on Upper Green River, has been in continuous operation for a little over thirteen years, having been organized, Garland A. Willoughby has been in the grocery business for eleven years, and for the past two years and a half has conducted a first class grocery of his own at the corner of College and Eighth streets, both phones 467. He carries a very complete stock of staple and fancy groceries, canned goods, teas, coffee, fruits, vegetables, flour, cigars, tobacco, confectionery, etc., and in fact about everything to be found in a first-class store of this kind. While his aim is to carry the best of all lines he has several which are worthy of special attention, viz., "Hunt Brothers" canned fruits, "Hart" brand of canned vegetables, the celebrated "Sincerity" blend of coffee—ranging in price from twenty to thirty-five cents—and "Everbest" flour, packed for his individual customers and guaranteed. He is also a large buyer of country produce of all kinds. In connection with the grocery business he also conducts an up-to-date meat department where only the choicest cuts are sold, and he makes his own sausage and renders his own lard.

When Garland A. Willoughby started in business for himself, two and one-half years ago, he had only his brother with him, and used one delivery wagon, and when this brother was out delivering orders, he remained in the store alone to wait on customers. Today, only thirty months later, he employs three additional hands, and runs four delivery wagons. This is a most excellent record, and is largely attributed, first to the motto he has always adhered to, "Quality," and secondly, to the untiring efforts of his brother, Sterling Willoughby, who is entitled to much of the success of the business.

Come to Bowling Green, Ky. Best town on earth.

GREEN HOUSES OF BURDELL FLORAL CO.

J. WILL STARK,

Dry Goods, Notions, Etc.

J. Will Stark is another of our younger merchants who has met with success in Bowling Green, and who is entitled to our patronage.

He has been in the dry goods line since 1894, and opened the store he now occupies five years ago. This is located at 405 Park Row, near College Street, and he uses two floors to advantage in the display of the large line he carries, including dry goods, dresses, goods, silks, trimmings, laces, corsets, gloves, umbrellas, trunks, suit cases, ribbons, notions, ladies cloaks, skirts and shirt waists, shoes for men, women and children, hats, caps, clothing for men and boys, ladies furnishings, gents furnishings, etc., and he has the agency here for "Justrite" corsets, "Stetson hats," "Endicott Johnson" shoes for men, "Cahill" shoes for women, "Simmons" kid gloves.

During the five years he has been in business for himself he has built up an excellent patronage, and his store has become well known throughout all this part of the country, and this is in a large measure due to the fairness of his business methods and the quality of the goods he handles.

E. P. HARRIS,

Prominent Business man.

E. P. Harris was born near Rich Pond in this county, April 5, 1870. He was educated in the common schools of his neighborhood and in Ogdon College. He lived on a farm until about nine years ago when he came to Bowling Green. He was making a decided success in his farming, and about eleven years ago was elected by the Fiscal for the county and three years later left his farm and moved to the city and has since resided here. After serving about five years as supervisor, he resigned to accept the position of City Engineer of Bowling Green, to which he was elected by the City Council, his experience as supervisor peculiarly well fitting him for the duties of engineer. The duties of this position he discharged faithfully, intelligently and well, and a large number of public improvements were made under his administration. This work was well done and is being constantly extended. In addition to the paving and street improvements he had charge of the waterworks and electric light departments and Fairview Cemetery. These departments were looked after and kept up in a manner that reflects great credit upon him and shows that he was a most capable, industrious and efficient engineer. He is a prominent member of the local lodge of Elks and is well known throughout both city and county and highly esteemed by a large circle of friends.

Since the expiration of his service as City Engineer, he has been manager of the Warren County Loose Tobacco Warehouse Company.

BOSE E. HAMBLIN,

Candidate For Jailor.

Bose E. Hamblin was born near Shakerstown, Logan county, Kentucky, where he obtained his education in the county schools. He came to Warren county twenty-three years ago, and was married to Miss Lizzie McFaddin, daughter of Elias McFaddin. Twelve years ago he moved to Bowling Green, and for a time worked about the court house and jail under Nat Curd and Jailor Charles Patterson, after which he was appointed Constable to fill out an unexpired term. This position he resigned, and went to work for the L. & N. railroad, with which he has been connected now for over eight years. For five years he has held the position of "Depot Policeman," and has been a most trustworthy officer. He is always at his place of duty, ready to give any assistance, or information to passengers in his power, and many travelers remember with gratitude the kindness and little favors he has so willingly shown them, and to their wives and children. He makes it a point to maintain order about the depot, and never permits it to become a lounging place for objectionable characters. That he has done his duty faithfully and well is proven by the fact that during his connection with the road the officials have never found it necessary to reprimand, or even caution him, regarding any neglect of his duties.

Bose E. Hamblin has announced himself a candidate for the nomination of County Jailor, subject to the action of the Democratic party, and he will make his canvas along the same clean, honorable, straightforward lines that he used when he ran for County Court Clerk two years ago.

S. A. KELLY,

Well Known Grocer.

S. A. Kelly is another of our younger merchants who has made a success of his chosen business and has taken a place in the front ranks of the enterprising and progressive grocers of Warren county.

He started in business about eight years ago, and for the past two years has occupied his present store at 418 Thirteenth street, between College and State streets—both phones 334. His store is well equipped with everything necessary, among other things a McCaskey Account Register, a time saving system for both himself and his customers. He carries a very complete line of staple and fancy groceries, canned goods, teas, coffees, baked goods, fruits, vegetables, pork tenderloins, sausage, smoked and salt meats, country produce, confectionery, cigars, tobacco, and in fact practically everything to be found in a first class store of this kind. He is also a large buyer of country produce of all kinds for which he pays the highest market price. By his own wagon delivery system he is able to deliver orders to all parts of the city promptly, and telephone orders are given careful attention.

S. A. Kelley has an excellent trade, due not only to the superior quality of goods he handles, but also to his evident desire to please his customers, and the honorable methods which govern every detail of his rapidly growing business.

GEORGE A. McLEAN,

Staple and Fancy Groceries.

George A. McLean was born and reared in Daviess county, Kentucky, on a farm near Owensboro, and obtained his education in the district schools. Nine years ago he moved to Logan county where he followed farming until he purchased the business of B. S. Dobson on September 1, 1910.

In the comparatively short while that he has been in business here he has taken a very important place among the progressive retail grocers of this city, and is doing an excellent trade, due undoubtedly, to the quality of goods he handles and his evident desire to please his customers. Moreover, as he does a cash business he is enabled to sell at the lowest possible prices, and in this manner save money for his patrons.

He carries staple and fancy groceries, canned goods, teas, coffees, flour, baked goods, fruits, vegetables, cigars, tobacco, confectionery, etc., as well as fresh, salted and smoked meats. He makes a specialty of sugar and flour, and calls attention to Auburn Leader, and Wilford's Climax flour, two brands with few, if any, equals on the market today for general baking purposes. He also buys country produce of all kinds, for which he pays the highest cash prices. He delivers all orders to any part of the city with his own wagons, and gives telephone orders his personal care.

The cash grocery of George A. McLean, is at 827 State street, near Main street.

MANY CUTS USED

By Courtesy Times-Journal.

Quite a number of the cuts, or illustrations, in this edition, are used through the kindness and courtesy of our esteemed contemporary, and neighbor, The Times-Journal, which not only believes itself in boosting Bowling Green—without doubt the best city in southern Kentucky—but as well was willing to aid us in doing so.

WILL V. GARVIN,

The Artistic Framer.

Will V. Garvin, "The Artistic Framer," has been in business since 1877, and on his own account since 1899. He has been in the store he now occupies for nine years.

He carries a very large and complete assortment of Wall Paper, Window Shades and Picture Frames, and has on hand a handsome line of picture frame moldings. He has made a specialty of framing pictures of all kinds, and does it in so artistic a manner, that he has gained for himself the name of The Artistic Framer.

In addition to the articles mentioned above he carries, books, stationery, school books, school supplies, sheet music, magazines, periodicals, and the largest line of toys in Warren county. He not only carries toys during the Christmas season, but during the entire year. He has recently received his spring styles and patterns in wall papers and it is certainly well worth a visit to his store to see them, for they are beautiful, all of them.

Will V. Garvin has been in business here for so long that he is well and favorably known and the superior stock he carries as well as the fairness which he shows in all his business methods, most certainly entitle him to the large, and ever increasing patronage, he is having.

J. E. TYLER,

Prescription Druggist.

This stand has been a drug store for fifty years, and was purchased by the present proprietor, July 18, 1910, from James H. Barclay.

J. E. Tyler has been in the drug business for sixteen years and is a registered pharmacist. After he purchased the store he now conducts, he refurnished and remodeled it, and made the interior practically new. Among other improvements he installed modern, sanitary soda fountain. This is one of the handsomest fountains in southern Kentucky, and is laid on a concrete floor. It is composed entirely of marble, metal and slate, there not being a particle of wood in its construction. From it are dispensed pure ice cream soda and other plain and fancy drinks.

The store is well stocked with drugs, medicines, patent medicines, sundries, rubber goods, perfumes, toilet articles, package candy, cigars, cigarettes, tobacco, and in fact everything to be found in a first-class city drug store. A specialty is made of the careful and accurate compounding of physicians prescriptions, and no prescription is too difficult or complex to be properly filled.

The drug store of J. E. Tyler is at 426 Main street, opposite the park.

HON. M. M. LOGAN,

For Attorney General.

M. M. Logan was born on a farm in Edmonson county, Kentucky, on January 7, 1874, and lived on a farm, a very poor one at that, until he was seventeen years of age. In the meantime he attended the public schools and a few private schools in the neighborhood. In 1891 he attended school at Leitchfield, Ky., and in the following summer was examined for a teacher's certificate, and passed the examination with the highest general average that had ever been made by any teacher up to that time, or since, as far as known. He taught school for four years, and attended school during the time at Leitchfield, Ky., and Danville, Ind. While teaching, he also read law, and when he became twenty-one, entered a law office and read law for a few months, and was examined for law license. License was granted to practice in June, 1896, and he immediately began the practice. Since beginning he has had a large and lucrative practice in this and surrounding counties.

In religion he is a Baptist, in practice he is a temperance man, having never in his life taken a drink of anything intoxicating. He is an Odd Fellow, a Mason, a Modern Woodman, a Macabbee, a Royal Neighbor, etc.

In politics he has at all times and under all circumstances been a loyal Democrat because he believes in the Democratic party and its mission. He has never sought office until the present time, and is a candidate for Attorney General subject to the Democratic primary, and expects to win.

His paternal grandfather was a South Carolinian and his maternal grandfather was a Virginian. He is of southern stock and loves the South.

Of all the numerous gentlemen who have announced themselves as candidates for the various offices in the State, we know of none more worthy the support of the Democratic party than M. M. Logan. He is from the common people, and one of them today. He is in every way qualified, by education, practice and experience, to fill the position he aspires to, and we feel absolutely safe in predicting that if he is nominated, and elected to the office of Attorney General, that he will prove one of the most capable and efficient officials that the Commonwealth of Kentucky has ever had in office.

A BRIEF SKETCH

First Presbyterian Church.

On April 9, 1819, in the Baptist Church, on the site where the post office now stands, the Presbyterian Church, of Bowling Green, Kentucky, was organized with twenty-seven members. Rev. Jos. B. Lapsley was the moderator of the meeting for organization, and was elected the first pastor. The elders elected were Messrs. Wm. McDowell, Andrew Wardlow, Benj. H. Hall and Wm. M. McPheeters. The first house of worship which the congregation had, was situated on the corner of what is now the old cemetery on College street, and Rev. Joseph Lapsley is buried under where the pulpit stood in the old church. The church was then served by stated supplies: Rev. D. H. Phillips for one year, Rev. S. B. Robinson two years, and for the next three years the pulpit was vacant. Rev. Samuel W. Calvert was then called, and served from 1831 to 1837.

Following Dr. Calvert, Rev. J. M. Clark served the church for one year, and in 1839 the church was divided into the Old and New School Presbyterian churches. Rev. A. C. Dickerson, D. D., was elected pastor of the New School Church and served until 1847, and from 1849 to 1858.

Rev. Samuel Templeton was pastor of the Old School for one year. He was followed by Rev. Joseph Templeton, who served the church two years. He was succeeded by Rev. Wm. G. Rice, who was pastor from 1844 to 1852, when he resigned and Rev. Lewis G. Harbour, D. D., was called and served the church till 1857, when he resigned and later became professor in Central University. He was succeeded by Rev. S. A. Mutchmore, D. D., who was stated supply for one year. In 1859 the two churches united, and called from the Seminary a young student who had just finished his theological education, Rev. R. K. Smoot. He served the church until 1876. During his pastorate more than four hundred members were received into the church. In 1867 the church again divided and the First and Second Presbyterian churches were organized. Rev. R. K. Smoot, D. D., remaining pastor of the First Church, and Rev. S. S. Gilson becoming the pastor of the Second Church. Mr. Gilson resigned in 1874, and the Rev. D. R. McCaslin was called and served the church two years and resigned. The venerable Dr. Dickerson was then called, and for the third time was a pastor in Bowling Green. However, because of his age he soon gave up active work, and in 1878 Rev. A. M. Hook was called as pastor, and served until 1880, when he resigned to accept a call to Greenville, Tennessee. He was called back in 1883, and for a year longer was the pastor, when he resigned to become a professor in Ogdon College. Rev. J. H. Raynard supplied the church until Rev. D. T. McClelland was called as pastor. This pastorate continued until 1887. Dr. Smoot, the pastor of the First Church in 1876 was called to the church in Austin, Texas. He was succeeded by Rev. J. L. Caldwell, D. D., whose pastorate continued for sixteen years. In 1888 the First and Second churches united with Dr. J. L. Caldwell as pastor of the united church. During this pastorate the church was remodeled and a memorial window to James Rumsey Skiles was placed over the pulpit in the church. In 1890 the church had on the rolls 348 members, with 269 in the Sunday school. Dr. Caldwell resigned in 1892 to become the associate pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in New Orleans, Dr. B. M. Palmer, pastor. After a few months' interval the church called Rev. J. W. Staggs, D. D., pastor of the Second Church, in Nashville, Tennessee. This call was accepted and for four years Dr. Staggs was the pastor, leading the church to great activities. In 1896 Dr. Staggs received a call to the Second Presbyterian Church, of Charlotte, North Carolina, which he accepted. And the latter part of the year Rev. Wm. Irvine, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Anchorage, was called and accepted the pastorate of the church. During the pastorate of Dr. Irvine there were large additions to the church, the membership growing until, when Dr. Irvine resigned in 1908, the church membership was 460.

The present pastor, Rev. Robert H. McCaslin, D. D., was called in October, 1908. During this period of ninety-one years more than two thousand members have been received. Five of her young men have been sent into the ministry of the church: Rev. S. Y. Garrison, Rev. A. M. Sawyer, Rev.

Geo. White, Rev. Theron Rice, now professor in the Union Theological Seminary, and Rev. William Irvine, Jr. Three churches have been sent out from this church—the Mizpah church, Greenwood church, organized by Dr. Dickerson, which afterward was united with the First Church, and Caney Fork church, which was also organized by Dr. Dickerson. During the pastorate of Dr. Caldwell it was determined to organize a mission and conduct a Sunday school and services. Accordingly the Delafield Mission was organized and a handsome chapel was erected. Later a mission was organized on Tenth Street and maintained for several years. In 1910 the Mizpah Church united with the First Church.

The present membership of the church is 651.

The church supports a foreign missionary pastor, Rev. W. B. Scott of Luebo, Africa.

It also has a live Brotherhood for men, four women's societies and two covenanter companies for boys.

Since the coming of the present pastor Dr. McCaslin, about 300 members have been received into the church.

The history of the church has been the history of the city, many of the leading men in the city and state have been members of this church; judges, lawyers who stood at the top of the bar, state legislators, Congressmen, United States Senators and authors of national fame.

REV. ROBERT H. McCASLIN, D. D.

Pastor First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Robert H. McCaslin, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, was born at Sweetwater, Tennessee, and obtained his boyhood education in the city schools and graduated from the high school. He then attended Sweetwater Military College from which he was graduated in 1899, with the degree of B. S. He then attended, and graduated from, Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., with the degree of A. B. From there he went to Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., from which he graduated, finishing his education at Central University, Indianapolis, Ind.

He entered the ministry in 1905, his first charge being as pastor of the Lebanon Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tenn., after which he was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Cleveland, Tenn., and in October, 1908, received, and accepted a call to his present pastorate. In 1910, the degree of D. D., was conferred upon him by Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.

Doctor McCaslin was married to Miss Grace Pollard, daughter of Rev. John Pollard, a Baptist minister, and one of the faculty of Richmond College.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

In This Edition.

The publisher of the News feels justly pleased at the large assortment of engravings in this edition, for they give an idea of the city of Bowling Green and its advantages, never before attempted, and are interesting, not alone to our residents here, but should also appeal to anybody seeking a beautiful city for a home.

THE J. M. DOOM

Motor Car Company.

The J. M. Doom Motor Car Company are the representatives here of The Steubacher E-M-F "30" Touring Car, $1,000.

There is one supreme test which must be passed by any man-made device, before it can achieve a real success. It is the test of time. To endure; to give faithful service; to demonstrate that first cost has been warranted in returns received—time alone can prove these ambitions which every manufacturer trusts his product will achieve.

The motor car that fulfills these conditions must be the one well worth while. The man who becomes the can you find a dealer in second-hand automobiles who handles the E-M-F "30" for the simple reason that the E-M-F "30" has never yet been worn out in service.

To the man interested in motor cars, the evolution of the E-M-F "30" Touring Car is an absorbing interest.

The designers of the first E-M-F "30" faced a task of tremendous importance laid down for their guidance.

of machine tools at work. Parts, which when made made by hand, had been so expensive as to be regarded out of the reach of a popular priced car, were turned out by automatic machinery at the rate of hundreds a day, and accurate to the thousandth of an inch, as the man-made parts could never be.

The first models of the E-M-F "30" rapidly became known as cars of sterling quality. Sold as they were, at a price new to such cars, they commanded a ready market—a market that justified the E-M-F Company's initial outlay and warranted steady and gigantic expansion.

But the E-M-F Company did not rest with the incorporation in its car of the standard principles of automobile construction. It organized and set to work a skilled experimental department, with orders to improve and refine wherever possible. Hundreds of proposed improvements were built and tested. A few of them survived the test. These were never withheld to make profitable the announcement of a new model. Proof of their value was immediately followed by the installation in the E-M-F "30." New models and other artificial stimulents to create demand were never necessary. The E-M-F Company played fair with its customers.

The automobile builders of today know more about friction-eliminating devices than did their predecessors. That knowledge has been embodied in the evolution of the E-M-F "30." They have learned vastly more, also, regarding the heat treatment of steels.

In 40 furnaces of the E-M-F Company's plants workmen treat, often by secret process, the component parts of the E-M-F "30," making a strong car stronger and a light car lighter.

The original, five-passenger touring car body remains the most popular type of passenger accommodation. The taste of today have merely refined its lines and added minor details. There are all embodied in the E-M-F "30" Touring Car.

All these refinements have been added, from time to time, to a car eminently satisfactory in its first form. They have somewhat changed the car in appearance and detail. But the basic principle of construction embodied in the first E-M-F "30" remain and are everywhere recognized as the most advanced and efficient known today.

Freak follows freak and fad piles upon fad in the calendar of many a motor car manufacturer. One grotesque or fanciful feature is discarded only to give way to another. But the E-M-F "30" goes on forever—a motor car built for service.

The purchaser of an E-M-F "30" Touring Car at $1,000 makes an investment in comfort and satisfaction that is bound to pay dividends for years to come. There is no motor car that will give better or longer service, at any price.

J. M. Doom is also Secretary-treasurer of the "Coco Cola" Bottling Works of this city, who are doing a business of about fifty thousand dollars a year.

W. F. Ennis,
Stone Contractor.

Prominent in Bowling Green's commercial life is W. F. Ennis, the stone contractor. He has been in business for himself since 1900, and has lived in the same place in Warren county—two miles west of Bowling Green—all his life.

For the last several years he has been kept very busy and his work is work of the Morgantown, Butler county, High School. He is a contractor for all kinds of stone work. Sills, lintels, steps, water tables, cistern tops, sink covers, curbing, etc., are furnished on short notice, and he gives particular attention to artistic stone fences. In fact he is prepared and qualified to do any description of stone up to a residence or business block. He has an office in the Neale Building, is thoroughly established in his business and does a line of work

His work is not confined to Bowling Green, for he has erected two fine stone residences in Nashville, Tenn., and has just completed the stone

JOHN S. HUMBLE LIVERY STABLE.

E. L. HENDRICK & CO.,

Leaf Tobacco.

E. L. Hendrick & Co., are among the largest dealers in leaf tobacco in Southern Kentucky. They purchase leaf tobacco of all kinds and grades direct from the growers, and after it is rehandled it is packed and shipped. From two to four million pounds of tobacco are purchased each season, and in the warehouse they have a capacity for about one million pounds. From seventy-five to eighty hands are employed in the factory and warehouse. An establishment of this kind is of great benefit to the growers of this and surrounding counties as it gives them a market right at home, where they are assured of right dealings and the highest market price for their tobacco. It is also of great benefit to the merchants of Bowling Green, as the largest portion of the money received for the tobacco purchased is expended with our retail stores.

E. L. Hendrick has been in the tobacco business since 1889. He was born in Warren County, and has lived in this locality all his life, and owns a farm of one hundred and forty acres, one and three-quarter miles from Bowling Green. This farm is under full cultivation and he gives it his personal attention except during the tobacco season.

E. L. Hendrick is one of our public spirited citizens and is ever-ready to do all in his power to advance the interests of Bowling Green and Warren county. His office and warehouse are on Fairview avenue a short distance above Chestnut street.

Louisville. In connection with his contracting business he is a large dealer in real estate, with offices at 643 S. Third street, Louisville, Kentucky, and

BEN. TOPMILLER, JR.

Ice and coal Dealer

Ben. Topmiller, Jr., is one of our younger business men who has made a success in business. He is a native of Ohio and came to Bowling Green seventeen years ago. He has been in the coal business practically all that time, and six years ago started business for himself, and has built up by hard work and industry one of the best trades in the coal and ice business in Warren County. He has his main office and yard at the corner of Main and Adams Streets, and another yard at the river where he is enabled to unload the river coal directly from the barges. His leader is the celebrated Green River Jellico coal, which he obtains direct from the mine, taking the mines output. This places him in a position to retail coal without the cost of the middleman's profits. He delivers purchases to all parts of the city with his own wagons.

His ice business is both retail and wholesale, and is sold locally and shipped. He supplies families, druggists, ice cream makers, meat markets and the merchants generally, and sells the artificial ice manufactured here from pure distilled water. He is in the ice business all the year, winter as well as the summer, and uses his own wagons the entire year. In both coal and ice he has always endeavored to please his customers, give full weight, and sell only what he felt would give satisfaction, and this fact in no small degree accounts for his success.

JUDGE HENRY H. DENHARTT,
County Judge Warren County.

County Judge Henry H. Denhardt was born in this city, and has lived here all his life. He was educated in the public schools and at Ogden College. After leaving school, for a num-during that period spent much of his spare time in reading law. He finally withdrew from the drug business and studied law for some time in the office of Sims & Covington, before entering the law department of Cumberland University at Lebanon, Tenn. He graduated from this institution in June, 1899. He returned to this city and began practicing his profession and from the beginning met with more than ordinary success. He served three terms as City Prosecuting Attorney, and in the last election he had no opposition. Judge Denhardt figures quite prominently in fraternal circles. He held the office for one term of Grand Sachem of the Grand Lodge of Red Men of Kentucky, the highest office of the order in the State, and for two terms represented the Grand Lodge in the Supreme Lodge. He is a Past Master Workman in the local A. O. U. W. Lodge, a Past Master of the Masonic Lodge and a member of the Odd Fellows.

He was appointed by Gov. Beckham, one of a commission of three to formulate a military code to govern the Kentucky State Guard, and is major of the Third regiment, K. N. G.

In November 1909, he was elected to the office of County Judge, and since holding the position has given the same careful, conscientious attention to the official duties that has marked his career since he was first admitted to the bar.

ber of years, he worked in the drug business with Mallory & Barclay, and

BOWLING GREEN,

Milling Company.

There is probably no better known milling company in southern Kentucky than the Bowling Green Milling Co. located on Adams street at the rail-

They are also large buyers of wheat and grain, for which the highest market price is paid. Merchant mill and grinding feed for farmers is also an important part of the business. They make the well-known "Black Raven," and "Perfection" flour, the road. It is run by steam, is equipped with modern machinery, is a full roller process mill, and has a daily capacity of three hundred barrels of flour and two hundred and fifty bushels of meal.

JOHN F. CARTWRIGHT,
Stoves, Tinware, Etc.

John F. Cartwright is a practical and experienced man in his line of work, and has been in business for himself for three years and a half. During that time his business so increased that on January 1, 1911, he was compelled to seek larger quarters, and moved into the large store he now

Being a practical workman himself, and employing none but experienced hands, he is in a position to guarantee everything he undertakes.

He also carries pumps, tin and galvanized ironware, and one of the largest assortments of tinware and enamoccupies at 326 Main street, old phone 515-B, new phone 634. He carries the largest line of furnaces, stoves and ranges in Warren county, and can furnish parts and repairs for any stove, range, or furnace made, on short notice. He also does all kinds of tin and eled ware in the city. John F. Cartwright has been very successful here from the very first, and this is undoubtedly due to the superiority of his workmanship, and the quality of the goods he handles.

2 Passenger Car.

Year after year, the verdict has been the same. In tests where price has been disregarded and merit alone has counted, the E-M-F "30" Touring Car has invariably scored one hundred per cent.

On January 1, 1911, there were 30,000 E-M-F "30" Touring Cars in the hands factory fad. Each principle and each detail had been tested and approved, before its installation.

The result inevitable—not an invention subject to essential change but an automobile to stand the test of time.

Quality in design made the cost of production of the E-M-F "30" higher than it might have been. But the addition was slight when compared to the enormous saving created when the E-M-F Company set its great battery
